New Energy and Energy Storage on Mombasa Island, Kenya

How can the port of Mombasa transition to green energy? Technical support for a feasibility study to identify viable green energy solutions at the Port of Mombasa lays a major foundation for such a transition. This project shall create new job opportunities around green technologies and renewable energies and associated value chain resulting in increased income levels and poverty reduction. Will AMEA power build a green hydrogen facility in Kenya? Dubai-based renewable energy firm, AMEA Power, has unveiled ambitious plans to construct a green hydrogen facility in Mombasa, Kenya. This landmark project represents Kenya's inaugural foray into the realm of green hydrogen production. Why is the port of Mombasa a fossil fuel based port? The Port of Mombasa is no exception as it primarily utilizes fossil fuel-based equipment and fleet to support its port operations. This is part of the larger global challenge where Maritime and shipping activities have contributed approximately 3% to global GHG emissions. How is Kenya transforming its energy sector? Kenya's energy sector is on the verge of undergoing a substantial transformation, with LNG import terminal, cross-border transmission system for NG supply, and new power plant. Will Mombasa be the largest liquefied petroleum gas facility in East Africa? This partnership aims to establish a vast liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) storage and handling facility in Mombasa, positioning it to be the largest of its kind in East Africa. The joint venture is expected to materialize with the cooperation of the state-owned Kenya Pipeline Co., which will pair up with Asharami Synergy Plc. How many tCO₂e does Mombasa port emit? A study conducted by Trademark Africa in estimated the volume of emissions at the Port of Mombasa to be 532,424 tCO₂e. The Kenya Ports Masterplan - outlines climate change mitigation and adaptation as a critical environmental concern for future port development and operations.
